Q: Using VB.Net, how can I extract information from a webpage I have been tasked to create an application that extracts information from a website and sends it to a remote database, however, I am not really sure how to even begin this. All I know is that I need to create an application that runs from a web browser, however I have no idea what language/Framework/environment to use, as this is all quite new to me. How can I begin with a language/Framework/environment to begin with? Thanks

A: You're asking two questions. The first is how to build the app, and that's just a general "how do you start?" question that you'll find on any site, and can't really be answered in an exact way without knowing more about the app. The second is how to get the information from the page, and that's a much more specific question and is answered by searching for web scraping - Self-motion induced grating-direction-dependent visual bistable perception: analysis of eye and orientation movements. Perceived orientation of a line in the visual field depends on its spatial period and the background grating in which it is embedded. The dependence of perceived orientation on grating and observer's movement is studied in a bistable line-motion perception paradigm. A percept may switch from one grating to the other as a function of movement. This
