What's New in the PhotoInfoEx Standart?

Version: 1.4.0.4 File Type: EXE File Size: 119.04MB File Date: 2009/05/19 File Version: 1.4.0.4 Requires:.NET Framework 2.0 Service Pack 1 or higher The real world is a complex place, with a vast number of new objects, actions and behaviors that cannot be fully captured by current image capturing equipment. In this context, a new type of image capturing equipment, which is able to record not only the images, but also the environment, the lighting, etc., has emerged. It is called a high-end camera. The resulting images are then converted to a high quality JPEG and are called Digital Photo Professional® images. The Digital Photo Professional® images are more precise in terms of the size and the color than the JPEG images produced by the standard camera. Thus, the Digital Photo Professional® images provide a better quality of detail and a higher quality of color than the JPEG images. However, the technology and quality of digital cameras have advanced further. There is a new generation of camera. The new generation of cameras is able to record not only images, but also the environment, the lighting, etc., just as Digital Photo Professional® cameras. This technology is called as Digital Photo Professional® High-End™. Digital Photo Professional® High-End™ images are based on the same format as the Digital Photo Professional® images. Therefore, Digital Photo Professional® High-End™ images can be viewed by Digital Photo Professional® application. However, the quality of Digital Photo Professional® High-End™ images is much higher than that of the Digital Photo Professional® images. By using the Digital Photo Professional® High-End™ images, users can obtain a higher quality of detail and a higher quality of color than the Digital Photo Professional® images. However, the existing Digital Photo Professional® software cannot process the Digital Photo Professional® High-End™ images correctly. Thus, the existing Digital Photo Professional® software cannot offer its users the advantage of the Digital Photo Professional® High-End™ images. To improve the quality of Digital Photo Professional® High-End™ images, KIDA Corporation has been developing a new Digital Photo Professional® High-End™ image processing tool. Digital Photo

Professional® High-End™ image processing tool is a new software application that is able to process Digital Photo Professional® High-End™ images, as well as the Digital Photo Professional® images. When the Digital Photo Professional® High-End™ image processing
