I am trying to make a carousel for displaying my cars images. On every page, I want my carousel to display the next or previous carousel. But how can I rotate the view while the next or previous button is selected? Do I need to bind a C# function to the button to rotate it? A: You can use a custom renderer, setting the image's ScaleMode property to AspectFill and setting the CenterInParent property to true. In this example, we are using the horizontal and vertical property to change the rotation of the image. public class CarouselPageRenderer :

PageRenderer { protected override void
OnElementChanged(ElementChangedEventArgs e) { base.OnElementChanged(e); var carousel = (Carousel)e.NewElement; carousel.ItemsSource = new List { new Image { Source = ImageSource.FromStream(() => new FileStream(@"Assets\carousel-1.png", FileMode.Open)), Scale = 1.0, CenterInParent = true },
```
