- St. Paul-based group "Movement" will take to the streets of Minneapolis in June for an event to show their support for the officers who have been assaulted since the Michael Brown and Eric Garner deaths. On the third night of the group's Dec. 4 "11/4 Movement" event series, the group is planning to protest until police stop committing violence against protesters. Movement, which calls itself a "non-violent direct action network," began last month. Nine "acts of solidarity and harassment" are planned for the "11/4" event series, which will cover actions to commemorate the fourth anniversary of the deaths of two people who were killed by police in the St. Paul area. For its Saturday action, Movement is making a jailhouse visit to the Northeast Minneapolis police department. The group posted on its website a "call to action" that reads:
- To all Minneapolis Police Officers and those who have access to our legal system: The racial and class nature of your encounters with us in this city have shown a disregard for the already-overburdened black body. We will continue to pursue, in nonviolent fashion, actions against the city, including your schools. It is time for you to decide which side of history you are on. We're calling on you to stop killing us. Please hold yourself accountable, and stop killing us. We call on you to stop killing us. The past must be confronted. We call on you to stop killing us. We are not afraid. We are here to stay. We call on you to stop killing us. For our kids. For humanity. We call on you to stop killing us. For our county. For our world. Thanks to all of the great work that you have done in your community for decades, your loved ones, for generations. We're here to tell you that our patience has run out. We have a chance to be heard. We, the people. But your patience is not

Furthermore, due to the request of the developer, we may change the game structure. In "Kanda-kun's path", you play as Kanda-kun in the game environment created by the developer.

During the game, Kanda-kun will interact with the game environment. The current sentence I am speaking about is: "Die Gewerkschaften waren zu des Zeitpunkts anfangs nicht einmal eine Absage des Beschlusses" I am in doubt about if to use the present tense for "anfangs", the present perfect (which can be used with "anfangen"), or a relative pronoun. My explanation for using "anfangs" and "anfangs" without "zu" is that the "anfangen" tenses already presuppose the "zeitpunkt", so it doesn't need the other parts of "zu" being related to the current time. Also, why is it considered a lot takes place on board an intergalactic vessel with unknown destination. The intergalactic vessel is damaged by a huge cosmic explosion, but some more or less curious and wild people arrive on the ship to investigate. Upon entering a small space station they discover alien monsters from which nobody has ever heard of before. These monsters will make your journey as interesting as you want, but keep in mind, you are a bit stranded on the ship, so you better don't touch anything and do as you are told by your companion. Use your combined teamwork and your wits to fight the dangers and find the secret behind the dead planet. Leisure Suit Larry in the Land of the Lounge Lizards is a sex game with no rating, not even sex, just Liza dressed up in a bathrobe, sitting at a table drinking beer and playing with herself.
