Gerz Clock is a compact sidebar gadget that allows you to view the current time on your desktop. See Also:- Top Desktop Gadget This is the first weather weather gadget that will display weather information and forecasts on your desktop. This gadget works with two main sources: the first one is Yahoo! Weather, and the second source is the Weather Underground website (www.wunderground.com). This desktop gadget works great because it will only consume a small amount of space on your desktop. This gadget is also FREE! It provides a cool look to the desktop and it does not require you to input any information. This gadget also works with several skins. It is recommended that you install the included Skin 1. If you want additional skins, you can download additional skins from our menu by visiting the links below: Color skin - This is the default skin, it is recommended that you install this skin. This skin has a few active weather displays. This skin has several skin options that you can choose from the folder /styles/ that is created after you install this skin. Snow graphic - This is the most recommended skin for this gadget, since it is a beautiful and unique skin, you can view the current and forecast forecasts and you can view the current weather information. Information skin - This is another nice skin, but not as beautiful as the Snow Graphic skin, this skin provides detailed information and requires more space on your desktop. This skin displays weather information from NOAA and weather information from AccuWeather. Weather meter skin - This is an interesting skin that also consumes some space on your desktop, but the content displays. Weather graphic skin - This skin is extremely similar to the "Information" skin, and like the "Information" skin, it displays information provided by NOAA and AccuWeather. This skin has many features but consumes even more space on your desktop
