meningoencephalitis (AFM) was observed in the Infectious Disease Department of Peking Union Medical College Hospital. After further investigation, a laboratory-confirmed outbreak of AFM occurred. A retrospective investigation of the outbreak was performed, during which the clinical data of patients with AFM and platelet count were collected. Data from 10 patients were used to evaluate the association between infection and thrombocytopenia. A significant correlation between thrombocytopenia and AFM was found. The median time of thrombocytopenia onset was 4days after admission. Three patients had the platelet count increased in the first 10days after admission but then decreased. Antifungal treatment was administered to 10 of the 11 patients and nine patients recovered from AFM. Results of our retrospective investigation suggest that thrombocytopenia could be an indicator of susceptibility to AFM. In particular, thrombocytopenia appears to be associated with a recent outbreak of AFM.

Q: fprintf to a txt file I have been working on an assignment where I have to add a specific field to a text file and then once that text file is complete it needs to be printed to a plain text file for future reference. When I open the plain text file all of the fields are printed to the same line instead of the different fields to different lines. This is the only part of my assignment that I am really struggling with.

Any help would be greatly appreciated.
