Q: GET request to remote MySQL instance fails I have a script to run a GET request to a remote MySQL server. curl is linked to the remote server. It reaches the database and outputs correct results. But when i run the below script, curl is not able to access the database from the remote server.

$query="SELECT * FROM users"; $username="root"; $password=""; $db="test"; $host="10.0.0.5"; $port=7331; $array = array("login" => $username, "password" => $password); $request = curl_init($host. ":". $port. "/" $db); curl_setopt($request, CURLOPT_USERPWD, $array['login']. ":". $array['password']); curl_setopt($request, CURLOPT_HTTPHEADER, array('Content-Type: application/x-www-form-urlencoded')); curl_setopt($request, CURLOPT_RETURNTRANSFER, true); curl_setopt($request, CURLOPT_HEADER, 1); curl_setopt($request, CURLOPT_SSL_VERIFYPEER, true); curl_setopt($request, CURLOPT_SSL_VERIFYHOST, 2); $result = curl_exec($request); curl_close($request);

When i paste the url "10.0.0.5:7331/test" and "10.0.0.5" in my browser, it works. Why is the request failing? Any help? A: Check this line: curl_

The actresses already gave us a massive pool of original content. one-hundred-percent-pure marijuana and, as long as the marijuana is legal, no one can argue that it isn't. Neither can you argue that it isn't a thing of beauty. After that, it starts getting a little cloudy.*** Works like a dream. 8 out of 10 I finally got the chance to leave the house one night in the middle of this bad weather. And I caught up with another set of people: ten other people who had been outside smoking and were all still huddled in four-car-length lines. I can't remember what my personal score was (I'm really bad at keeping track of number of hits), but it was higher than everybody else's. One guy was in particular, and he was wearing a, I shit you not, afro-style hat and a red coat. "Ain't it funny," he said to me as he handed me a joint, "you know that you can't smoke the weed you get at the store?" I wondered how he could tell that from the packaging, but I couldn't really argue. "Yeah," I said. "Well," he said, "you can smoke your weed at a Grateful Dead concert, but you can't smoke it
