Hi Andy, so if I understand "multiply by ten to the power", that means MinimumArcLength 1e-4 is 1/10000 of the drawing unit and . 01e+06 means MinimumArcLength 1e-3 is 1/10000 of the drawing unit, and so on. Is this true for any given quantity? Yes, sure. This means you need to multiply by ten to the power, where ten and the power is any integer between 1 and 10 with base 10 (decimal) to get the blueprint parameter value. In this case, MinimumArcLength is one decimal number - 1e-4. In this section, we'll look at how to set drawing options. Setting Drawing Options 1.
